Sound Seal Announces new website for Acoustical Masonry

New Acoustical Masonry Website allows for a better user experience

AGAWAM, Mass. – November 28, 2017 – Sound Seal, a leading manufacturer of noise control products serving the industrial, architectural, commercial and construction industries, announced today the launch of its new website for Acoustical Masonry, formerly The Proudfoot Company. Sound Seal acquired the Proudfoot Company back in July of 2017 and is pleased to offer an organized and intuitive user experience with the new <http://www.acousticalmasonry.com> website.

This new content rich website is full of product and application information. It contains valuable sales tools in PDF format allowing visitors to download information at the click of a button. This website is also responsive allowing our audience the convenience and ease of use from any tablet or smartphone device.

“We are excited to launch our new Acoustical Masonry website. The SoundBlox® and SoundCell® products are well-known and have a long-standing reputation for solving noise problems. With Acoustical Masonry now being offered within the Sound Seal portfolio, we have the opportunity to provide the marketing support these products deserve. This new website is the first of many steps we plan on taking to make that happen...” said Jennifer Chagnon, Director of Marketing for Sound Seal.

Whether you are a new customer, a Distributor or simply inquiring about our Acoustical Masonry products, this website will provide all of the detailed information you need in a fast, effective and aesthetically pleasing manner.
